SUBJECT: Request for a DepEd Advisory for ICG-TRENDS 2026

Maria Ines C. Asuncion, CESO III
Regional Director
DepEd Region XI

Dear Dir. Asuncion ,

Greetings of peace and service!

The global educational landscape is navigating a profound paradigm shift driven by accelerated technological advancements, shifting curriculum demands, and evolving cross-border workforce requirements. To ensure that our Filipino educators do not merely react to these changes but instead proactively lead them, institutional calibration across all levels of the Department of Education (DepEd) is absolutely essential.

In line with this vision, Aloysian Publications (Philippines) and BETMA English (Vietnam) , in a strategic international partnership with the University of Calicut (Kerala, India), will jointly organize and conduct the International Conference on Global Trends in Education: Research, Curriculum, Technological Pedagogies, Instructional Leadership and Supervision, and Digital Exchange (ICG-TRENDS 2026). This prestigious international assembly will be physically hosted at the main campus of the University of Calicut, India, on September 10-12 , 2026, and will simultaneously be accessible worldwide via a secure Online/Hybrid Streaming Mode.

Under the banner theme "Elevating Professional Competence, Securing Career Progression, and Fostering Academic Excellence through Flexible Global Education," this 3-day conference will feature 18 hours of dedicated, peer-reviewed programmatic tracks covering:

1. Evidence-Based Action Research and contemporary classroom data benchmarking;
2. Technological Pedagogies and the ethical integration of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in lesson design; and
3. Transformational Instructional Leadership and Supervision frameworks for school administrators.

An event of this scale offers a rare transnational opportunity for our classroom teachers, master teachers, principals, and division supervisors to present their empirical research, engage in cross-cultural digital exchanges, and benchmark their practices against international systems. Furthermore, this program directly supports the continuing professional development mandates of the National Educators Academy of the Philippines (NEAP) and provides tangible pathways for career progression and promotion.

In this regard, we respectfully request your good office to issue a Regional DepEd Advisory to be cascaded across all division offices . This advisory will formally invite and encourage all interested teaching and non-teaching personnel to participate in this international conference, either via the Face-to-Face International Track or the Flexible Online Mode, on an official or voluntary basis.

To help your technical review committee evaluate this request, we have attached the comprehensive 3-day hour-by-hour program layout, the rationale, specific learning objectives, and the guidelines. Should you require further information, you may contact the organizing committee at  Email: submissions@alloysianpublications.com, FB: Doc Cris Avila Mobile: 0921-579-4211 and Website: <https://alloysianpublications.com> .

We look forward to your favorable response as we collectively work to elevate the global competence of the Filipino teacher. Thank you very much, and more power to your leadership!

Respectfully yours,

ICG-TRENDS 2026

International Conference on Global Trends in Education: Research, Curriculum, Technological Pedagogies, Instructional Leadership and Supervision, and Digital Exchange
UNIVERSITY OF CALICUT
Calicut University P.O., Thenhipalam, Malappuram District, Kerala — 673635, India
September 10-12, 2026

I. Rationale

The global educational landscape in 2026 is navigating a profound paradigm shift driven by accelerated technological advancements, shifting geopolitical realities, and evolving cross-border workforce demands. Traditional educational delivery frameworks are no longer sufficient to prepare lifelong learners for an increasingly interconnected and digital-first economy. To prevent systemic obsolescence, academic institutions must transition from reactive modifications to proactive, structural transformations.

The International Conference on Global Trends in Education (ICG-TRENDS 2026) is established as a premier global platform to address these challenges. The rationale behind this international gathering rests upon four critical pillars:

- Evidence-Based Curriculum and Research Integration: Traditional educational architectures must be recalibrated. Educational content can no longer exist in isolation; it must be continuously informed by rigorous empirical research and systemic benchmarking against global standards.
- The Convergence of Technology and Pedagogy: The rapid evolution of educational ecosystems demands the development of Technological Pedagogies. Educators must move beyond merely using digital tools and instead intentionally integrate learning technologies into their core instructional designs.
- Transformational Instructional Leadership: Navigating modern classroom shifts requires agile Instructional Leadership and Supervision. School administrators and supervisors must evolve from traditional bureaucratic managers into visionary coaches capable of mentoring faculty through technological transitions and curriculum overhauls.
- Transnational Digital Exchange and Cultural Synergy: Academic excellence cannot be achieved in isolation. Through institutional benchmarking and cross-cultural digital exchanges, educational systems can share best practices, appreciate diverse localized contexts, and co-create universally recognized learning frameworks.

Ultimately, ICG-TRENDS 2026 serves as a vital collaborative space. It brings together researchers, classroom practitioners, curriculum designers, and institutional leaders to challenge existing paradigms, share cross-cultural insights, and future-proof global education.

II. General Objectives

To achieve its vision, the conference will direct its proceedings toward the realization of the following three comprehensive objectives:

1. To Synthesize Global Research and Benchmarking Data for Curriculum Innovation: The conference aims to foster the presentation and peer review of high-quality empirical research from around the world. By analyzing diverse academic outputs, the event will establish clear data benchmarks that help institutions upgrade, internationalize, and future-proof their local curricula and instructional designs.
2. To Advance Technological Pedagogies and Digital Exchange Networks: The event will showcase cutting-edge breakthroughs in educational technology and flexible learning models. It aims to build sustainable, international networks for digital exchange, equipping educators with the skills to turn digital tools into powerful, culturally responsive teaching strategies.
3. To Recalibrate Instructional Leadership and Supervisory Frameworks: The conference will provide a dedicated space for school administrators, division supervisors, and academic leaders to share contemporary strategies for institutional management. The focus will be on building agile supervisory frameworks that foster academic excellence, support continuous faculty development, and ensure smooth career progression during rapid educational changes.
